OF COURSE one of the quickest ways to start an' then lose an argument with a woman, is to complain about the way she runs a house. You know-about meals and things . . . At least that's what I've found in 16 years of married life.

So when I found our morning toast wasn't tastin so good, an'my lunch-box sandwiches weren'tup to grade, I didn'tup an' complain. I went at it another way. I asked some of the fellahs at the plant what they thought was a good kind of bread.

Seemed like Omar Bread was mentioned so many times that it would be a good one to try. So I had Clara, (that's our daughter) get us a loaf. That night at dinner I simply said that I'd heard Omar Bread was so good that I thought we ought to find out about it ourselves. An since we had the lost right there we all did.

Everybody in the family had so many good things to say about Omar that it's been our standby ever since. Jimmy sort of sums it up for all of us when he says, "Omar's good eatin".... So you see how to win an argument with a woman? Just don't start one.

On the Move

THE newsest Roosevelt-Courtball conferes a or amprising only because it is appearing scoper than expected. After from that, it is Actually, the conference, while they are played up as meeting, between the Brittin print minister and the United States chief executive, are chiefly important as conferences among the administrative officials who work out the details of strategy. There can be no reasonable doubt that there officials are engaged now in poliching details of the next major Alifed move. Or II, as some brileve, all that was done at Cambianca, then they may be working out the move

However that may be, they are not holding an inquest, nor are they going through the motions of getting together for old time's sake. It is recalled that two other heads of states who used to meet together to plan moves have neither the time nor inclination to keep up the custom in the original style. When they meet now-if they meet-Benito asks Adolf what happened and Adolf says he is in no mood to take any of that bird's lip and that's the end of another meeting, except for the announcement that Italy will surrender some of its sovereignty starting next morning at runnie.

There Was No Dunkirk

CAPTURE of Col. Gen. Jurgen von Arnim, highest German military official remaining in Tunisia, puts the capstone on the Axis debacle in Africa. It is a fact of almost as great importance as the Ailled triumph over Axis arms on that front that the forces cornered in Tunisia were left to their fate when the showdown came.

The Italian navy did not come out for a rescue; it did not have a fighting chance. German and Italian air power failed at the critical moment. Supply lines broke down, There was no Dunkirk. There was not even a Bataan, in the sense of heroic last-ditch resistance.

Dispatches on the repercussions of Axis defeat are stressing the loss of prestige sustained by the Germans and Italians among the Arabs who had been encouraged to think the Allies were attempting the impossible when they promised to wrest control of Africa from the once proud and scemingly insuperable forces led by the mysteriously missing Marshal Rommel, Elsewhere, the loss of prestige is comparably as great. It is evident again that the only insuperable thing about German arms was the unpreparedness of the opposition in 1939-a defeat now being overcome with effects that will not leave the gutcome of the war in doubt much. longer. =-

Cold Shoulder at Hot Springs

COMPLETION of arrangements for holding the United Nations food conference at Hot Springs this month in a modified publicity vacuum finds the press reconciled to what it feels is a bad mistake. The press can stand this, but it doubts if the government will care for the consequences.

The fact is that the conference threatened to be a disappointment, even with the benefit of the publicity that would have been legisimately possible if publicity had been encouraged, instead of discouraged. The prospect now is that the conference may prove disappointing to the delegates.

The press, calling on its experience in dealing with delegates in the past-and a delegate is a nelegate-suspects that depriving them of their contact with publicity will be only slightly less cruel than depriving them of their expense accounts. It will be as though part of the well known American hospitality were being held back at their expense.

Strong-Handed Senate

WHATEVER improvement finally comes out of the free-fer-all partisan fight over the Ruml plan apparently must come from the senate.

The house, dominated in financial matters by a reactionary majority of its ways and means committee pledged to do-or-die for the Nev-Deal's outmoded theories of taxation, has been helpless. It has been little more than the souncing board for the national debate which resulted in public favor for the Ruml plan. The real decision rests with the senate, which has received the garbled compromise squeezed through the lower house and given it a decent burial, substituting its own version of the Ruml pian. This will be acted on this week, acceptance is predicted. Thereafter the house will decide through its conference committee whether to be rescued from its ineptitude by the senate, or to add still further to the complications that ineptitude already has created. Inspired rumors mentioning the possibility of presidential veto if anything but the house version reaches Mr. Roosevelt's desk are circulating, but they are too preposterous to be taken seriously. The President, most of all, has reason to be grateful for a strong-handed senate at this juncture.

Congress has been in session since Januaryalmost five months-and only new is there a chance to get the tax reform that should have been finished at least a year ago as part of the national bulwark against inflation.

Reason for Success

The vast success of American productive effort in planes, lanks, munitions, and men cannot be attributed to any of their devices, but rather to simple American spirit and ingentity as displayed by both capital and ittoor as a whole. No commissariat and no socialism have had anything to do with it. Yet the opinion seems to be held in some agitating American quarters that the totalitarian system has won the war despite the triumph of the democratic productive effort.

Not even our own totalitarian ally, Russia, could hope to stand without the superior production leased or lent by democracy. Moscow papers have announced, for instance, that they have received more American planes than M≥c-

The only official word given out thus far about Mr. Churchill's latest trip to Washington, other than the news of his arrival on Tuesday, was a White House dis-closure late yesterday that he had traveled by ship and train, instead of flying here as he did last June.
All indications are the preliminary talks between the two leaders have been completed and they are in virual seclusion, going over their plans step by step Many Possibilities cover a wide field of possibilities, revolving principally around the prospects of an early invasion of Europe and a speed-up of the tempo of war in the Pacific.

There are several things Hitler might try to bolster the shaken confidence of his own people, restore the prestige of his govern-ment among satellite nations and discourage as far as possible the rebelliousness born of hope in conquered countries. One of these, as military authorities on the American east coast have repeatedly warned, would be a long range bembing attack on New York, Washington or some other city which his big planes might reach on a suicide mission. Even if it succeded, however, such a raid could give the German high command only temporary relief. Another possibility would be to try to stage a few extremely heavy raids on London as evidence that the luftwaffe still has the power to strike offensively.

These Players Were Made-To-Order

THE CONVERSION OF BABE RUTH from a southpaw pitcher to a home run slugging outlielder was the most successful position change in paschall history. Down through the years paschall managers have occasionally switched a player from one post to another, sometimes with satisfying results. Bucky Walters, moved from third base to the pitcher's box, is baseball's current shining example. Jimmy Foxx came up as a catcher, made his reputation as a walloping first sacker; Outfielder John Cooney was originally a chunker, Flychaser Stan Musial was once a young pitching are and Mel Ott reported to the Giants as a pulky catcher. This year's chief experiments in position changes find Otto Denning, a catcher, at first base for Cleveland, and Johnny Lindell, a pitcher, in right field for the New York Yankees.

GRAINS REGAIN PART OF LOSSES TODAY

OF LOSSES TODAY

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, May 14 — Grains rallied from their lows toward the close today, but generally were not able to make up all the losses recorded in a selling movement earlier in the session. Wheat and rye touched new lows for the current move before the rally started.

A news dispatch from Washington saying, war Food Administration Chester Davis was planning to ask farmers for a 25 per centimicrease in whiter wheat acreage next fall brought some liquidation into the bread cereal. Oats displayed a reintively firm tone throughout the session, led by an advance of about a cent in the May contract.

OBJECTOR SENTENCED

SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 14 — Federal Judge Thomas W Slick sentenced Ralph W. Snyder Jr., 28, of Marietla, O., to two years in prison for deserting a civilian service camp at Largo, Ind. Snyder was identified as a conscientious objector.
